Spotlight on HealthyYou! at EKU
Healthy You! at EKU now open to covered dependents.

Despite budget cuts and changes to Healthy You! at EKU, we are still trying to take every step we can to keep health care costs low for all EKU employees. Since the health of every person using our insurance impacts the final cost we pay for coverage, we have decided to extend the program. Beginning this program year, spouses, sponsored dependents, and dependents 18 years of age or older who are covered under EKU health insurance are eligible to participate in the Healthy You! at EKU program and earn rewards.

Find out more information about the changes to Healthy You! by visiting www.healthyyouateku.com or visiting the Healthy You! booth at the benefits expo.

Test Your Fire Smarts
A recent national survey conducted by Liberty Mutual in association with the International Association of Firefighters revealed that Americans hold many misconceptions about fire safety. Take this brief True-or-False quiz to test your own fire smarts. And remember, there are no trick questions.

QUESTIONS
1. True or False: When exiting a burning building, you should leave all doors open for firefighters to enter.
2. True or False: Power strips protect against electrical fires.
3. True or False: It’s safe to run a space heater 24/7.

ANSWERS
1. False: Closing doors behind you as you escape slows the spread of smoke and flames.
2. False: Power strips protect against power surges, not fires, and if overloaded, can in fact cause electrical fires.
3. False: Space heaters are designed only for short-term operation. Always turn them off when you exit the room for an extended period, especially at night when you go to bed.
